Multisystemic Home Based Therapy Program

The #1 rated evidence-based practice in the nation for at-risk youth

Keeping families and communities together.

TCMHS OUTPERFORMS THE NATIONAL AVERAGE IN ALL 10 MEASURES FOR QUALITY ASSURANCE

Families & Communities

We believe the most effective and ethical route to help youth is through helping their families. Parents and guardians are essential resources and their involvement is needed along with a network of community systems including schools, juvenile justice, neighborhoods and peers to positively impact a youth's life.

"It is the drive of each individual and the collective attitudes of their MST program that helps Tri-County stand out and surpass the national average. While it is an old therapy cliché that 'a client will not care how much you know, until they know who much you care', I do think this is an identifying trait of Tri-County's MST Program... they truly care about the families they work with, and that is what drives them to be as good as they are,"

Dan Ensor, MST System Supervisor, Community Solutions

How it works

MST is provided in the client's natural environment of home, school and community to improve access to treatment. Intervention strategies include family counseling and cognitive behavior therapies that aim to develop youth competence by improving the relationships, interactions, and skills of those who surround the youth, especially family members.

Counselors have small caseloads and are on call for their families 7 days per week around the clock to provide first response in crisis situations. Treatment involves an average of three hours per week for 3-5 months.

Parents & Community as Partners

MST providers work to empower parents and improve their effectiveness by identifying strengths, developing natural support systems, and addressing and removing barriers to success. Parents learn skills that assist them with meeting current and future challenges.

It can be estimated that by preventing a high-risk youth from embarking on a criminal life path, a savings of $1.7 to $2.3 million can be generated. [Cohen, 1998.]
